This one-story Flemish-bond brick bank building faces north onto Charles Street. This structure has a three-bay facade composed of metal-muntined windows and a central doorway embellished with a classical cornice and pilasters. The central bay of the structure is distinguished by an engaged portico set on brick Doric piers. The tympanum of the portico and the wall surface between the piers are stuccoed. There are two false exterior gable-end chimneys with beveled and tiled shoulders. A slate-shingled gable roof shelters this distinguished building.
